In most areas of the country, state and local law does not require that you buy a container to surround the casket in the grave. However, many cemeteries require that you have such a container so that the grave will not sink in. Either a grave liner (concrete box) or a burial vault will satisfy these requirements. These prices are for the standard size outer burial containers, a smaller or larger container, will be priced accordingly. These burial vaults may vary in color and finish. The only warranties, expressed or implied, granted, in connection with the goods with this funeral service are the expressed written warranties, if any, extended the manufacturer thereof. No other warranties of merchandising fitness for a particular product are extended by the seller. Please see the warranty for details, descriptions, and limitations. Please see the manufactures warranty for details, descriptions, and limitations.

DORIC VAULTS OFFER PROTECTION & SECURITY

An unsealed concrete box is the basic, and most economical, burial container.

An unsealed concrete box allows ground water to enter the container through discharge holes in the bottom and around the unsealed lid.

Steel reinforcement, Doric's exclusive Integra-Seal® which joins the lid and base, and thermoformed inner liner provide added strength for the ultimate in protection.

Superior hand-applied exterior finish provides beauty and acts the first layer of protection.

Graves are no longer opened by hand with a shovel. Today, the backhoe is the choice for most grave openings. Did you know that the average backhoe weighs in excess of six tons. This weight, the daily grind of cemetery equipment and the constant forces of the soil pressure reinforces the need for protection. Doric understands your concerns. To combat these forces, Doric manufactures one of the strongest lined concrete burial vaults in the industry today. Doric vaults are lined with our exclusive plastic liners which are manufactured in our own facility under the watchful eye of Doric craftsmen to ensure every liner is consistent in quality and strength. The cover, where the forces are the greatest, are steel reinforced for added protection to an already premium vault.
