He was a trainer of volleyball with the local sports club, where he met his wife, Louise. They married in 1970.

In 1988 he moved to Manville, NJ where he worked for Duke Farms Foundation until he retired in 2005. He enjoyed his retirement taking care of his family, grandchildren, fishing, and traveling. He was an active participant in Sacred Heart church in Manville, as a lecturer and fulfilled his passion for theater by directing and performing in shows highlighting Polish history and religion.

God gave Antoni a special gift on the eve of his last Christmas. He had the chance to share the traditional Christmas wafer, Oplatek, with each family member and was able to tell them how much he loved each and everyone.
